A BOOKSELLER'S

INTRODUCTION, DEDICATION, AND PREFACE,

To a Book for the Use of the Public.

AN ATTEMPT to index Family Pedigrees, and place them (nearly 10,000) under alphabetical arrangement, so as to bring the very essence of Genealogy under one view, has been the Compiler's object. When the number of volumes that have been consulted, and the vast number of pages referred to, is taken into consideration, the reader will perceive the amount of diligent labour required for the task; the Compiler not depending on the correctness of the indexes of such works as have them. Every Pedigree of three or more generations has been noticed, and it is hoped very few errors will be found. A list of the principal County and Local Histories, with the size and date of publication, is given in the first portion of the work.

The Compiler is quite aware that the repetition of the titles and authors' names could have been much shortened, but it must be borne in mind that this book is intended to serve two very important purposes: first, to save the practical genealogist much labour and time; and secondly, to afford ample instruction to the amateur and general reader, who may not know that the history of his native county, town, or village has been printed. But the most useful trait in this Index is the information which will be gained by persons in every station of life, whether residing in this country, America, or any of the British Colonies, who, by merely running their eye over the pages of this work, can inform themselves if the genealogy of any family in which they may have an interest, has ever been printed in a tabular form. Having found the references to such Pedigrees—however distant from the book sought to be obtained—he may depend on having faithful copies of any Pedigrees direct from Mr. Coleman, on the following terms:—An exact copy of the reference, as found in this book, to be sent; a post-office order for 5s., and the address in full; on receipt of which a true copy of any Pedigree will be forwarded. In all cases where the Pedigree embraces more than six generations, an extra charge of 6d. will be made for every such generation.

Mr. Coleman with confidence commends this Index to all enquirers after genealogies. In any subsequent edition he may be encouraged to publish, his customers and correspondents can rely on their additions to this; and any improvements suggested for a Second Edition shall have his best attention.

Mr. Coleman originally intended to have published the Index in parts of 16 pp., and to have issued them with his Catalogues, but that plan has been most ungraciously interfered with; he has, in consequence, determined to publish the whole at once, at the same price, viz., 6d. per sheet; that being the lowest price he can sell it at whereby he can realize a profit, or the public can ever hope to have a book of this description complete.

That the Index may be useful to the public is the sincere wish of their obedient Servant,

JAMES COLEMAN.

AMERICA.

Notice to American Book-Buyers and Heads of American Institutions.

I beg to state that I do, and shall continue to purchase, from every possible source, Books, Deeds, Manuscripts, and Pedigrees, Old Wills, Heraldry, Topography, Biography, &c., &c., for the Illustrating, Confirming, and Completing of Family Histories. Also, I have now made arrangements for making searches in all the Public and Government Offices, for the accommodation of the American Genealogist and others. On receiving full instructions and One Guinea, search shall be made and the result sent to Applicant. No other payment required until further arrangements are made with the Enquirer.

MR. JAMES COLEMAN

Will feel greatly obliged to any Gentleman who will send him Copies of the Latest Printed List of Members of any Archæological Societies, Museums, and Libraries, also the Addresses of Collectors of the Antique, Lovers of Heraldry, Genealogy, &c., &c.

A Book is kept to enter all "Wants" that GENTLEMEN may require in collecting Old Deeds, Pedigrees, Wills, MSS., &c., on any subject, or Books of any class; and they may depend upon having reports as to condition and price of any articles they collect (if made known to me) by letter, before they are Catalogued.

N.B.—In consequence of many of the Articles offered for sale in my Catalogues being UNIQUE, or very difficult to be again obtained, Gentlemen will oblige by looking them over as soon as possible, and send off at once in order to secure the lots they require, and prevent disappointment to themselves.

It is most particularly desired by Mr. Coleman that the Name and Full Address of all his Customers should be plainly written. He also begs to notify that when any article is written for which is sold, that no answer may be expected (except when a Post-Office Order or Postage Stamps have been sent with the Order).
